Robert A.M. Stern on MCNY's "Late Modern / Post Modern Architecture: The New Frontier" Panel

7:00 pm

The Museum of the City of New York, 1220 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York 10029

Robert A.M. Stern will participate in the panel discussion "Late Modern / Post Modern Architecture: The New Frontier," at the Museum of the City of New York, moderated by Paul Makovsky, Editorial Director of Metropolis, along with panelists Annabelle Selldorf, FAIA, Principal of Selldorf Architects; John Kriskiewicz, Associate Professor Parsons School of Design; and Michael Gotkin, landscape architect and preservation advocate. The panel will discuss the challenges and opportunities presented by late Modernist and Postmodernist works only recently eligible for landmark protection. This event is one of a series of public programs scheduled in conjunction with the Museum's exhibition Saving Place: 50 Years of New York City Landmarks.
