RAMSA's Physical Master Plan for Rutgers-New Brunswick Presented to Board of Governors

Rutgers University President Robert Barchi presented the Rutgers-New Brunswick Physical Master Plan to the University's Board of Governors today. Developed with Robert A.M. Stern Architects and Sasaki Associates, the plan proposes strategies for future growth in support of the University's long-term goals, including new and expanding academic initiatives; strengthening connections among the Busch, Livingston, College Avenue, and Cook-Douglas districts; and improving facilities for student life, student housing, health, wellness, and recreation.

Robert A.M. Stern, Alexander P. Lamis, and Graham S. Wyatt led RAMSA's design effort.
