

ROBERT A.M. STERN ARCHITECTS

<https://www.ramsa.com/projects/project/house-hook-pond>

House on Hook Pond

East Hampton, New York

2010

Project Partners

Randy M. Correll
Robert A.M. Stern

Description

Our client was drawn to the modest character of an existing house located on a small pond in the Village of East Hampton that had been owned by a couple who were both artists. We were asked to breathe new life into the house without sacrificing its casual composition. What had been the living room is now a master suite; the studio, retaining its homey finishes and the artists' work table, easel, and a half-dozen of their works, has been repurposed as the living room. An adjacent two-car garage has been replaced by an abstractly-massed two-story guest wing which, with its large windows, gives the appearance of a studio when viewed from the pond.

